of a collision implies

irreducibility of a polynomial? I have a simple question. Suppose I have a polynomial $f(x) \in \mathbb{Z}[x]$, such that $f(x)$ is square-free, irreducible and there is no integer $n \in \mathbb{N}$, $n^2 \mid f(x)$. CBS.MarketWatch.com

The government has been a disastrous share of consumers' market share for years, and who really cares what it is now? The government isn't pursuing policies to benefit consumers; the idea of the government's remaining out of the way of business is quaint; there is a perception among consumers that the government is an unreliable partner; and Washington's remaining "New Zealand-style" relies on sending

Field of the Invention The present invention relates to illumination devices, and particularly to a light-emitting diode (LED) device having a reflecting layer for indirect heat dissipation. 2. Description of the Related Art As illustrated in FIGS. 4 and 5, an LED device includes a circuit board 11 and a plurality of LEDs 12 attached to the circuit board 11. The circuit board 11 is a metal plate, and each LED 12 includes a conical transparent resin portion 121 attached to a surface of the circuit board 11, and a light-emitting portion 122 located at a bottom of the conical transparent resin portion 121. When the LED 12 is used in the LED device, the conical transparent resin portion 121 absorbs heat generated by the light-emitting portion 122, and thus heat dissipation efficiency of the LED device is reduced.
